On November 21st, the Wapakoneta High school staff visited Apollo Career Center as their professional development. Each person signed up for two hands-on experiences. Options included: zSpace Virtual Reality, Floral/Design Interiors, Multimedia Technology, and Automated Manufacturing Technology. Small group tours and lunch in the Garden Café were also part of their visit. This was a successful day which allowed for teachers to better understand the options for students coming to Apollo.

Science Instructor, Linda Brown, led the zSpace virtual Reality learning experience.

Audria Durham, Welding and Fabrication 1, Waynesfield Goshen, showing a Wapak visitor how to use the virtual welder.

Bryce Perkins, Automated Manufacturing Technology 2, Bath, waiting to show Wapak visitors the robotic arm.

A Wapakoneta High School staff member enjoys having a student teach her how to make a balanced floral arrangement.

Academic Instructors:

Mrs. Roll, Government & American History

On November 22, Mrs. Roll's 7th period government class participated in a live video conference with the Kennedy Library in Massachusetts. The interactive discussion with Nina Tisch, education specialist, focused on the Cuban Missile Crisis, presidential leadership, primary documents, and how the office the individual represents reflects his or her advice (relating this of course to President-Elect Trump currently considering individuals for his Presidential Cabinet). What a great experience for all involved and hoping to connect with other organizations across the country to further the students learning experience.

Mrs. Krites, English Language Arts:

Austin Fickle, Computer Information Support senior from Elida, displaying his 3D printer version of a sword from Beowulf.

Adam Carver (Automated Manufacturing Technology senior from Shawnee) displaying his Monster's Lair scene from Beowulf.

Johnathon Morman, Welding and Fabrication senior from Spencerville, and Mariah Rodriguez, Spa & Esthetics Technology senior from Shawnee, displaying their shield and drawings from Beowulf.

Satellite Instructors:

Vanessa Gronas, Shawnee, Culinary Arts:

In honor of fall and Thanksgiving, Baking and Pastry Arts classes focused on apples this week. The kitchens did different recipes and then had to display them for serving. Students then got to taste the variety of apple recipes.

The students also have a "Baking with Apples" informative essay to complete.

Recipes:

Apple Turnovers.

Apple Caramel Bars

Apple 7-Up dumplings

Apple Crisp

Finished desserts: Mark Fleming (junior) and Kayla Thompson (junior) with their finished product, apple turnovers Deasia Smith (senior) was working on her recipe, Apple Caramel Bars.

DANA DUKES-NORTON, District Communications ~

I have included some analytics for the digital campaign and google (Search Engine Optimization), as well as Facebook. The great thing about the web is the ability to see and track what is and isn't working. I am able to define goals for the upcoming months based on real-time data. One of the goals for the new year is to drive people to the Apollo website from social media. I have been using Instagram, Twitter, Facebook, and YouTube as separate entities. We have continuously been increasing traffic and posting videos to social media has been very popular on Facebook. Since implementing the Google SEO, organic traffic to our website has increased 300%. Traffic data is a performance barometer for Apollo's website and marketing initiatives. I'm continuing to run short campaigns with the partner spots and am combining traditional media with the online marketing. Other projects include:

- Continuing to learn software for signs (external) and monitors (internal)
- Pictures
- Craft Show resources
- Videos
- Behavior flow modifications to high school home page and gateway page
- Pictures
- Coordinating AYS interviews with staff and Mike Miller
- Special Projects/ApolloPalooza
